ST. PETERSBURG, July 27 .- The different organs of the ministry of finance publish an identical article on the note of M. De Witte, the minister of finance, regarding the Brussels sugar convention. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 27.-Miller and Newlin engaged in a battle in the first game of this afternoon's double-header, and when the nine innings were finally over the visitors had been let down without a run and with only three hits, while the locals | Gear, p 0 0 0 3 0 Mock, p 0 1 1 connected with Miller but six times, and secured only two runs. The second game went to the visitors by a good margin, through Sporer's wildness in the fourth. Both pitchers were backed up in splendid shape in the first contest and a doubleplay on each side saved scores. In the seventh the locals led off with a double by Werden and the veteran scored, but a double-play headed off more runs. In the eighth Phyle got a single, stole second and scored on Heydon's wild throw to second, which went into center field and was juggled by Coulter. "Lefty" Sporer was on the rubber at the start of the second game, and while he did not "go up in the air" in the first inning, as he did yesterday, he saved himself for the fourth inning, when he let in five runs through wild pitching and inability to field his position. The youngster was hit freely during the inning, and seemed unable to get his hands on the bunts and infield hits which came his way. The five runs assured the victory to Indianapolis. Although the locals several times had things coming their way for several runs, the fast fielding of the visitors stopped the runs. In the fourth O'Brien threw Byers's single wild to Kihm, and the ball went into the bleachers. The dummy broke through the fence and frantically tried to get hold of the leather, but the crowd hid it from him until Byers had scored. A postponed game will be played to-morrow. THE PRESIDENT'S VACATION.

He Should Be Protected from the Encroachments of the Public. The Outlook.

The President's vacation at Oyster Bay, on the south shore of Long island, is evidently to be a busy one. He is accompanied by a corps of cierks and secretaries, has secured passable if not adequate quarters for the transaction of public business, and is doing his work while the members of Congress are enjoying their vacations in all parts of the country. It is greatly to be coped that people will give him the opportunity of securing the rest which he needs. The President of the United States s the most overworked man in the country, and he is overworked largely because he is compelled to meet so many people who have no claims upon his attention, and attend to so many matters which do not in the least concern him, either personally or as President. If we are not to kill our Presidents in their prime, we shall have to protect them by recognizing the changed nditions between the time of Mr. Roosevelt and the time of Mr. Jefferson. The official head of a nation of eighty millions cannot keep his front door aiar for any one who chances to call on him to discuss local matter; it is physically impossible. Dignified simplicity and proper accessibility ought to be preserved at the White House; out it is neither dignified nor sensible to blige the head of the nation to shake lands with every American who chooses to call upon him, and to listen to every one who wishes to interest him in projects which do not in the least concern him. The President, if he is to do the work which he is placed in the White House to perform, ought to be relieved of all drudgery, of useless calls, of all interruptions by persons who wish to shake hands with the President simply because he is President. His time and strength ought to be reserved gress has endeavored to safeguard his person by a more stringent law against Ansafeguard his health, time, and working power by protecting him from the inroads any equivalent service.
